

Section 9.3. A particle moves from the point $(1, 0)$ to the point $(2, 1)$ in the xy -plane with speed equal to its x -coordinate. What is the path which takes the least time?

Set up this problem carefully as a variational problem. Then use the methods of the calculus of variations to solve it.